ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0000-0000-0000>

► Write your name exactly as in your ORCID profile. Give the full name of the institution, without abbreviations. ORCID is required for every author. No more than two co-authors. Ukrainian authors also give their name and affiliation in Ukrainian. The e-mail is used for editorial correspondence and is not printed in the published article.

Artificial intelligence in the methodology of audiovisual art research

► Sentence case: capitalise only the first word and proper names; no ALL CAPS, no full stop. Up to 15 words, no abbreviations.

► Abstract: 1,800–3,000 characters with spaces (excluding keywords), five short parts in this order. Do not write the word “Abstract”. Methods and novelty are stated here and are not repeated as separate sections in the main text.

The purpose of the study: to substantiate... / to determine... / to reveal... — one sentence.

Methods: which methods were used and on what material (sources, works, participants — how many, where, when).

Scientific novelty: what has been done for the first time, clarified or further developed.

Results: the main findings, stated specifically, with figures where available.

Conclusions: a summary and the significance for theory or practice.

Keywords: first word; second word; third phrase; fourth; fifth.

► 5–8 words or phrases separated by semicolons, lower case.
